

Living In Colour

Words and Music by Christa Haberstock

Copyright 1999 Child of God Music

Arranged by Jeff Watt

It scares you a little to sit in the middle,
Never quite over the line.
It seems to me lately you are sedately
Living with less than sublime.

You're only half way if black and white's grey
And truth has no colour at all.
If you'd open your eyes to the sunrise
And realise after all -

We are living in colour
Loving the living of life.
We are meant to discover
Meaning and mercy in Christ,
Where love is the colour of life.

You have the feeling someone is stealing
Happiness rightfully yours.
Colours are fading, still you are waiting
Silently wishing for more.

If you're only half way, if black and white's grey
If truth has no colour at all.
You can open your eyes and see a sunrise
And realise after all -

We are living in colour
Loving the living of life.
We are meant to discover
Meaning and mercy in Christ,
Where love is the colour of life.

We are living in colour
Loving the living of life.
We are meant to discover
The meaning and mercy of Christ,
Whose blood is the colour of life.